Battery Park City Parks

PLANT LIST

Battery Park City extends for over a mile along the Hudson River, from Chambers Street South to the Battery in Lower Manhattan and features 36 acres of public space and parkland. In Battery Park City one can find expansive lawns, carefully tended gardens, tall trees, and even ‘wild’ areas.

Our horticulturists care for the gardens, lawns, and trees within the parks. Through holistic management techniques, our staff focuses on maintaining the proper soil conditions throughout the year by using only non-toxic methods for soil preparation and pest control. The staff is well known for the high quality compost and compost tea they produce.

This is a list of the almost two thousand plant species that grow in the parks of Battery Park City. Each plant is carefully chosen by our expert horticulturalists based on the types of soil, temperature tolerance, and salt tolerance. Plantings are developed so that different species grow in cooperation rather than competition. One can often a plant in full bloom many days out of the year.
